Al Capone's Speakeasy

Communication + Interpersonal Skills

Limit 15 participants

The most innovative escape room Atlanta has to offer – you are undercover agents trying to infiltrate a Speakeasy owned by the notorious gangster, Al Capone. You will need to convince the bartender (played by an in-room actor) to help you find the evidence to put him away! Play as one of many roles - The Singer, Police Chief, The Rookie, and other immersive roles – all of which affect the game play! Al Capone's Speakeasy will test your team's ability to communicate with and influence one another. Each character role has a Special Ability and Side Quest which affect how the story unfolds, allowing for unique ways to find clues and solve puzzles. Your in-game actions and decisions affect relationships between the characters, and determine whether or not you successfully escape.

Escape From Alcatraz

Time Management + Team Coordination

Limit 10 participants

The year is 1962, and Alcatraz is about to see its greatest escape attempt. Earlier this evening, a prisoner named Frank Morris made a successful prison escape. You must follow the clues left behind by Frank but you have only one hour before daybreak – so this is your last chance to escape! Escape From Alcatraz will test your team's ability to assess the situation and combine efforts to discover clues and solve puzzles. You'll need to make sound decisions and act fast if you want to escape within sixty minutes.

King Tut's Tomb

Concentration + Listening

Limit 10 participants

It's 1922, and you are members of Howard Carter's archaeology team. Mr. Carter has discovered what he believes is the Egyptian Pharaoh King Tutankhamen's (King Tut) tomb. Unfortunately Mr. Carter hasn't discovered the burial chamber of King Tut, and the Egyptian authorities will arrive in 60 minutes to shut down the archaeology site for good. King Tut's Tomb will test your team's ability to focus and concentrate on detail-oriented puzzles and tasks. You'll need to read thoroughly and listen carefully to instructions in order to discover clues and complete the challenge in time.
